“What the future Navy will be like, we cannot say as yet.”

- Chief of Naval Operations Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz
Success Stories Along the Way

Ballistic Missile Submarine

Satellites

Radar
THE MISSION
THE GLOBAL COMMONS
It is increasingly clear that China and Russia want to shape a world consistent with their authoritarian model—gaining veto authority over other nations' economic, diplomatic, and security decisions.

2018 National Defense Strategy
Yes, there will always be a Navy. Not necessarily a Navy of battleships, or submarines, or carriers, but a Navy in the sense of what the word Navy truly means.

- Admiral Chester Nimitz
Yeas, there will always be a Navy. Not necessarily a Navy of battleships, or submarines, or carriers, but a Navy in the sense of what the word Navy truly means. — Admiral Chester Nimitz
“Yes, there will always be a Navy. Not necessarily a Navy of battleships, or submarines, or carriers, but a Navy in the sense of what the word Navy truly means.”

- Admiral Chester Nimitz